FOR THE ASSOCIATE COMMISSIONER,
EXAMINATIONS

Myra L. Rosenberg
for Robert P. Wiemann, Acting Director
Administrative Appeals Office

DISCUSSION: The application was denied by the Director, Nebraska Service Center, and is now before the Associate Commissioner for Examinations on appeal. The appeal will be sustained.

The applicant is a native and citizen of the People's Republic of China, who seeks to obtain a travel document under section 223 of the Immigration and Nationality Act (the Act), 8 U.S.C. 1203. The director denied the application for a reentry permit after determining that the applicant's conditional resident status had expired and the applicant had not been interviewed and granted approval of the Form I-751 by the Immigration Service Center in New York City.

On appeal, the applicant states that the reason given for why her application was denied is incorrect. The applicant explains that she filed the Petition to Remove the Conditions on Residence (Form I-751) and received an extension of her Temporary Evidence of Lawful Admission for Permanent Resident stamped in her passport. Additional evidence has been submitted with the appeal.

In pertinent part, section 223 of the Act provides that an alien lawfully admitted for permanent residence who intends to visit abroad and return to the United States to resume that status may make an application for a permit to reenter the United States.

The regulation at 8 C.F.R. 223.2(b)(1) allows for the approval of a reentry permit if the application (Form I-131) is filed by a person who is in the United States at the time of application, and is a lawful permanent resident or conditional permanent resident.

The record of proceeding reveals that the Application for Travel Document (Form I-131) was filed on April 20, 2000. At the time of filing the application, the applicant was in the United States as a conditional permanent resident. The applicant planned to leave the United States on April 26, 2000 to visit her father, who is in the hospital in Taipei, Taiwan, for one month. The applicant became a conditional permanent resident on April 24, 1998 and her conditional resident status terminated on April 24, 2000. The applicant filed for the removal of the conditions on her status on April 18, 2000, which was within the 90 day period (January 25, 2000 until April 24, 2000), immediately preceding the second anniversary of the date on which the applicant obtained conditional permanent residence. 8 C.F.R. 216.4(a)(1).

The regulations at 8 C.F.R. 216.4(a)(1) state, in pertinent part:

Upon receipt of a properly filed Form I-751, the alien's conditional permanent resident status shall be extended automatically, if necessary, until such time as the director has adjudicated the petition.

The applicant was a conditional permanent resident at the time of filing of the application for a reentry permit. The applicant properly filed Form I-751, and consequently the applicant's conditional resident status was extended until such time the I-751 is approved. There are no Service regulations that require the approval of an I-751 in order for a conditional resident to be eligible for a reentry permit. Therefore, the application for a reentry permit should have been approved.

The burden of proof in these proceedings rests solely with the applicant. Section 291 of the Act, 8 U.S.C. 1361. The applicant has met that burden.

ORDER: The appeal is sustained.
