DISCUSSION: The Director, California Service Center (the director), denied the nonimmigrant visa petition, and the matter is now before the Administrative Appeals Office (AAO) on appeal. The appeal will be dismissed. The petition will remain denied.

The petitioner is a citizen of the United States who seeks to classify the beneficiary, a native and citizen of the Philippines, as the fiancée of a United States citizen pursuant to section 101(a)(15)(K) of the Immigration and Nationality Act (the Act), 8 U.S.C. § 1101(a)(15)(K).

The director denied the nonimmigrant visa petition because the petitioner failed to establish that he met the beneficiary in person during the two-year period before he filed the Petition for Alien Fiancé(e) (Form I-129F). On appeal, the petitioner submits a letter.

Applicable Law

A "fiancé(e)" is defined at section 101(a)(15)(K) of the Act as:

subject to subsections (d) and (p) of section 214, an alien who -

(i) is the fiancée or fiancé of a citizen of the United States . . . and who seeks to enter the United States solely to conclude a valid marriage with the petitioner within ninety days after admission[.]

Section 214(d)(1) of the Act, 8 U.S.C. § 1184(d)(1), states in pertinent part that a fiancé(e) petition:

shall be approved only after satisfactory evidence is submitted by the petitioner to establish that the parties have previously met in person within 2 years before the date of filing the petition, have a bona fide intention to marry, and are legally able and actually willing to conclude a valid marriage in the United States within a period of ninety days after the alien's arrival, except that the Secretary of Homeland Security in [her] discretion may waive the requirement that the parties have previously met in person. . . .

The regulation at 8 C.F.R. § 103.2(b)(8)(ii) states that if all required initial evidence is not submitted with the petition or does not demonstrate eligibility, U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) may, in its discretion, deny the petition for lack of initial evidence. The specific requirements for filing a Form I-129F, including a description of the required initial evidence, may be found in the Instructions to the Form I-129F.

Factual and Procedural History

The petitioner filed the fiancé(e) petition with USCIS on September 30, 2013 without sufficient supporting evidence. For this reason, the director issued a request for additional evidence and, in response, the petitioner submitted additional documentary evidence including a letter from the beneficiary, passport-style photographs and Forms G-325A for the beneficiary and the petitioner, and a copy of the petitioner's U.S. passport.

The director denied the petition finding that the petitioner had failed to submit evidence to establish that he and the beneficiary had met during the two-year period immediately preceding the filing of the petition as required under section 241(d) of the Act, or that meeting the beneficiary in person would violate strict and long-established customs of the beneficiary's foreign culture or social practice or cause extreme hardship to the petitioner.

On appeal, the petitioner submits a letter explaining that he has previously met the beneficiary on three occasions. The petitioner states that their last meeting was in August 2011, and that traveling to the Philippines again would impose financial hardship and difficulties finding childcare for his minor son, and because his current job does not allow for extended leave.

Analysis

The petitioner has not submitted probative evidence that he and the beneficiary met in person between September 30, 2011 and September 30, 2013, which is the two-year period immediately preceding the filing of the petition, or evidence that the petitioner merits a favorable exercise of discretion to exempt him from such requirement pursuant to section 214(d)(1) of the Act and the regulation at 8 C.F.R. § 214.2(k)(2).

On appeal, the petitioner states that he was unable to meet the beneficiary during the required period due to financial constraints, as well as work and childcare obligations. The petitioner, however, does not submit any evidence to support his statement. Going on record without supporting documentary evidence is not sufficient for purposes of meeting the burden of proof in these proceedings. Matter of Soffici, 22 I&N Dec. 158, 165 (Comm'r 1998) (citing Matter of Treasure Craft of California, 14 I&N Dec. 190 (Reg. Comm'r 1972)).

Pursuant to 8 C.F.R. § 214.2(k)(2), the petitioner may be exempted from the requirement for a meeting with the beneficiary if it is established that compliance would:

- (1) result in extreme hardship to the petitioner; or
- (2) that compliance would violate strict and long-established customs of the beneficiary's foreign culture or social practice, as where marriages are traditionally arranged by the parents of the contracting parties and the prospective bride and groom are prohibited from meeting subsequent to the arrangement and prior to the wedding day. In addition to establishing that the required meeting would be a violation of custom or practice, the petitioner must also establish that any and all other aspects of the traditional arrangements have been or will be met in accordance with the custom or practice.

The petitioner has not established that his inability to meet the beneficiary before the filing of the petition was due to extreme hardship or strict, long-established customs of the beneficiary's culture. The record does not contain probative evidence that financial hardship or work and childcare obligations prevented the petitioner from meeting the beneficiary during the required period.

Conclusion

The appeal will be dismissed for the above stated reasons. In fiancé(e) visa petition proceedings, it is the petitioner's burden to establish eligibility for the immigration benefit sought. Section 291 of the Act, 8 U.S.C. § 1361; Matter of Otiende, 26 I&N Dec. 127, 128 (BIA 2013). Here, that burden has not been met. As stated at 8 C.F.R. § 214.2(k)(2), the denial of this petition is without prejudice to the filing of a new petition.

ORDER: The appeal is dismissed. The petition remains denied.
